Broken Promises (noun)

1. A disappointing trait of saying the right things but not sticking to your word. See Mayor Greg Ballard.

In just four years, Mayor Ballard has broken promises on education, crime and health.

Mayor Ballard's Broken Promises:

ON EDUCATION

Mayor Ballard promised to make education a priority, but he's been "missing in action" says The Indianapolis Star and admitted that he hadn't even met with school superintendents in over a year.

(Source: The Indianapolis Star, 10/2/11, 5/29/11, Matthew Tully).

ON CRIME

Mayor Ballard promised more police officers on the street, but he's failed to deliver and serious crimes such as aggravated assault are on the rise.

ON HEALTH

Mayor Ballard promised to support a smoke-free law but then he broke that promise and killed the law in a backroom deal.

Melina Kennedy. A better choice.

Kennedy supports more accountability for our schools.

ON CRIME

Kennedy is endorsed by Indianapolis Police.

ON HEALTH

Kennedy is a strong advocate for a smoke-free Indianapolis.
