had something
to do with it.)

The tobacco industry
gave money to Andre Martel
both before and after he voted against smoke-free legislation.

Why did Andre Martel vote against legislation that would have protected New Hampshire residents from the dangers of secondhand smoke?

He didn't do it to keep us healthy.

But Martel did receive money from Big Tobacco—both before the bill came to the Senate floor, and after he delivered his vote against it.

If Andre Martel's going to work for Big Tobacco, he shouldn't be doing it from the State Senate.
